Method 1-i Pere David Deer

Length: Measure the main beam antler on the center of the outside curve from the lowest edge of the burr to the tip. (L) The tape must not be pressed into the groove above the burr. The main beam starts at the burr and after the first "Y" fork extends upward and after the second "Y" fork it continues upward, and most often inward.

Circumference: Measure circumference at the burr. (C) Use a continuous loop and do not measure any protrusions over 2/8 inch.

Tines: Measure the length of the three longest tines. (T1, T2, T3) Do not again measure any part of the main beam. Measure from the point to the base line on the main beam. Typically, the longest tines are the tines going rearward at the first "Y" and on the front section of the antlers.

Count: Do not measure the lengths but count the number of valid tines 1 inch (or 2.5 cm) or more in length with a base no wider than its length. This includes all tines, including the main beam tip and the 3 longest tines measured above.

Spread: Measure the widest outside spread at a right angle to the long axis of the skull. (G) Do not measure the inside span.

Score: The score is a cumulative of the length of the main beams, circumferences, the three longest tines on each side, the tine count and the spread.
